

Why 3800 men said this!

3800 merchants displayed the above card in their stores and told their customers that they sincerely thought Lowney's "Medal of Honor" Chocolates were the best they had ever sold.

The reason? It's a selected package, and contains only these favorites of the Chocolate lover: Peach, Orange and Pineapple Cordials; luscious Fruit Nougatines, Cluster Nuts, Brazil Nuts, Belmonts, sugared Pineapple and Nuts Glacé.

Where can you get this delicious pound of Chocolates?

At some reliable store right here in town. See if you don't agree with the judgment of the Panama-Pacific Judges,

"These are the Prize Chocolates."

HUGHES TO MAKE TOUR

Campaign Trip by Republican Nominee Now Seems Probable

HEADQUARTERS TO BE IN CHICAGO

Hughes Continues His Conferences and Receives Many Visitors

New York, June 16.—Charles Evans Hughes continued his conferences here yesterday with Republican leaders and others. He said when he met newspaper men that he had no fixed plans in view for the day and indicated that plans for the campaign were as yet indefinite.

It was said at Mr. Hughes' headquarters yesterday that the nominee would in all likelihood make a campaign tour, but that this matter was also undecided. Headquarters are to be opened eventually in Chicago, it was learned, to handle the campaign in the West.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the old national convention, and William Potter of Philadelphia, who seconded the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt at Chicago, were early visitors yesterday.

Charles D. Hilles' successor as chairman of the Republican national committee will be selected, in all likelihood, at a conference here next Monday afternoon between Mr. Hughes, W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, chairman of the national sub-committee on organization, and as many of the other seven members of the sub-committee as can be present.

THE ORPET TRIAL.

Undertaker Tells of Orpet's Tracks in Snow in Woods.

Waukegan, Ill., June 16.—Tracks made in the snow of Helmut's wood were still the subject of minute examination yesterday at the trial of William H. Orpet, charged with the murder of Marion Lambert.

Ered Wenban, the undertaker who removed Marion's body from the woods, testified that the tracks made in the snow by Marion and Orpet were a day older than those made by William Marshay and Frank Lambert, who found the body.

Wenban said he examined the old footprints carefully. The small ones and the larger led into the woods to the cluster of three oak trees where Marion's body was found. The larger led away alone to a marshy spot overgrown by weeds. From the weeds they returned to a spot where there were four oaks, then described a semi-circle to the spot where the body was found.

The witness told of noticing a stain in the snow similar to that on Marion's face and right hand. It was in the path made by the man leaving the body, he said.

This is regarded by the state as support for its theory that Marion's companion carried the remainder of the poison from which she died away with him. The undertaker made another point for the state which holds that the cyanide of potassium that caused the girl's death was taken in liquid form.

"The yellowish white deposit on her hand," he said, was moist when the body was brought to my place. Gradually it dried.

Former Mrs. Cleveland on Road to Recovery.

New York, June 16.—Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, jr., formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who was operated on at the Roosevelt hospital by Dr. Howard C. Taylor Wednesday, was resting easily today, it was stated, and her condition was entirely satisfactory.

Glenwood

All you have ever longed for in a range is found in the Plain Cabinet Glenwood. It's made in natural black iron finish—so smooth and easy to clean—the "Mission Idea" applied to a range. A room saver too like the upright piano.

Reynolds & Son, Barre

It is said to be the most perfect piece of machinery yet devised to make house-keeping drudgeless.

Burns either coal, wood or gas and you can get just the right size to fit your kitchen.

Call and look them over and you will understand more about why Glenwood Ranges Make Cooking Easy.

Topics of the Home and Household.

Gloves that will take the place of rubber gloves when working in the garden or washing dishes are made by dipping old gloves into hot linseed oil, which renders them waterproof.

When the wall paper, chances to need a patch, and the new paper is conspicuously bright compared with the old, hang the new piece in the sunshine, watch closely, and you will find that it will soon sun-tone to match the old paper. You may then patch your wall and the patch will be hardly noticeable.

In cooking a bird in the oven, roast it in the usual way until nicely browned; then turn it back upward, and let it remain so until done. This causes the gravy to run into the breast, making it deliciously soft and tender.

When making cranberry jelly use a pinch of soda before straining the cranberries. It will take only about half as much sugar and does not hurt the flavor or keep it from jelling. Stewed apricots, rhubarb, etc., may be handled the same way.

Little Savers.

Sugar Saver.—Less sugar is required if a pinch of carbonate of soda is added when stewing fruit.

Potato peelings should be dried in the oven and used for lighting fires. Less wood will be required.

Salt.—a tiny pinch—added to the whites of eggs makes them froth more quickly. Salt, when thrown on the fire once a day, prevents the accumulation of soot in the flues.

Too Much Polishing.

"No woman should become a slave in her home," Miss Mary F. Rauech, assistant professor of home economics in the extension division of the University of Washington, told delegates to the convention of the American Bankers' association at Seattle. "She must learn to let things go, and not be ashamed of a little clean dust on the tables or on the piano." Miss Rauech spoke on "What a Good Home Means to the Community," and she found occasion to denounce as unnecessary much drudgery of house-making; to plead for the broader education of school girls in the arts of the housewife; and to urge reformations in the management of the household to the end that money may be saved, lives enriched and lengthened, and labor made a pleasure through its ennoblement.

"No matter how busy, a woman should take time to rest five minutes several times a day," she said. "There are some housekeepers who make life a burden for everyone in the family. These are the women who are too clean about house-keeping and who want to polish every nail in the attic door so as to show that they are good housekeepers and have everything bright and shiny."

"Housekeeping is a business or a profession, like any other business. More people engage in it than in any other occupation. It must be run on business-like principles. Ninety per cent of all that people earn is spent for clothing, food and shelter."

"The market basket represents personal selection, and the woman who wants to save the pennies must select her own groceries and meat and must pay cash for them. I am sure that the telephone and delivery system is to blame for part of the high cost of living, but when a woman has many duties and a large family and sometimes a large pocketbook she could not change if she would.

"As to the goods delivered in packages: Buy a glass jar of bacon and weigh the contents and you will find you are paying about 50 cents a pound, against 30 or 35 cents for sliced bacon bought at the butcher's. True, it is sliced thinly, it is of good quality and it is convenient and handy to have in an emergency. But I am speaking of the woman with a moderate pocketbook who must buy wisely."

Dorothy Dexter.

An Appreciation of the Farmers.

Don't you do the farmer justice, I wonder, and realize when perhaps you observe him staring at your automobile as it passes him, propped against his hoe, that the intenseness of his practicality amounts almost to an instinct and that he senses the power and mechanism of your machine probably better than you do yourself, albeit he is ignorant of its technicalities? Or if it is at yourself he looks, probably the grotesqueness of your costume amuses him, or your vain quest for the rainbow's end makes him thankful for his lot. Behind that blank face is a mind made very sensitive to impressions through the reaction of temporary physical relaxation. When you pass he resumes his labors with renewed vigor. That man can judge a horse, can build his own wagons and barns, can give and take with nature, and can accept reverses with considerable stoicism—no mean accomplishments.—Hilton C. Brewer in The Countryside Magazine for June.
